We're your neighbors!

When it comes to your family's food, it just doesn't get any fresher than this! The Marion Regional Farmers' Market provides both farmers and backyard growers the perfect spot to bring their produce, veggies, and fruits fresh from the garden to the market, and straight to your kitchen table!

Local churches and groups offer delicious homemade jams and jellies, crafters showcase their Appalachian handicrafts, and local businesses offer locally-ground coffee, fresh-baked breads, free-range chicken and beef, and more!

We're your Saturday morning' gatherin' spot!

Downtown come alive early during harvest season! From the first sprigs of Spring to the Autumn hues of golden yellows and bright reds, folks rise early to see what they can find each Saturday morning at the Market.

This week, it may be milk and dairy fresh from the farm, or maybe eggs and homemade soaps. Perhaps you'll find local photography, bedding plants, or the most tender steak you've ever had. Heirloom veggies, hot baked bread, delicious sausage biscuits for breakfast, homemade hot dogs for lunch, and fried apple pies for a snack in No matter what you're looking for, you're sure to find plenty of good company! And this year, thanks to a grant from the folks at Appalachian Farmers Market Association, we're sportin' new benches just for you to kick back and soak up all the Market has to offer.

Come join us for the new Saturday morning downtown tradition . . . The Marion Regional Farmers' Market, under the green pavilions, with plenty of free parking, fresh locally-grown produce, and plenty of friendly smiling faces!

We're YOUR Marion Regional Farmers' Market!
